Subject: RE: Streptomycin petitions 4E8236 and 5F8427- Renegotiation

Good Morning,

I will forward your proposed renegotiation until October 5, 2017 to my Management for approval. Please note that based on the notification that the additional information will not be submitted until mid-May, and the work that follows (including review of additional information by BEAD, 152 Team; Federal Partner meetings; internal briefings; public process work (generally 4 months depending on comments received) and tolerance establishment/labels), we do not believe that 6 months will be adequate time to complete the reviews of the current actions. Therefore, we anticipate the need for an additional renegotiation at a later date.

I will confirm once the renegotiation is signed.

Thank you,

Hope A. Johnson

Subject: Streptomycin petitions 4E8236 and 5F8427- Renegotiation

Hi Hope,

This email is in response to your recent e-mail communications regarding Petitions 4E8236 and 5F8427 (Decision Number 486865 & 486866 & 512078), EPA Registration Numbers 80990-3, 80990-4 (Decision Number 486863 & 486864 & 512076 & 512073), and EPA Registration Number 71185-4 (Decision Number 486859 & 486861 & 512067) where the Agency has requested a 1 year extension of the PRIA date.

AgroSource does not agree to the proposed PRIA renegotiation due date from April 5, 2017 to March 31, 2018 for the pending Petitions 4E8236, 5F8427 and associated registration actions. We consider a 6 month time extension to October 5, 2017 should be sufficient for the Agency to complete the review of the subject Petitions. This extension should allow the Agency enough time for approving the pending applications.

As stated earlier, we appreciate your fair assessment and consideration in moving forward with the pending antibiotic crop petitions.

If you need any additional information, please let me know.

Kind regards,
Bert
